

Dear Year 6,

How are you? I know it is a very strange time at the moment for us all, as we all adapt to living and working from home. I miss all of you very much; it is very quiet here without you! I am really enjoying speaking to you over the phone (although you all have suddenly become very shy!) and knowing that you are all finding a good balance between working and having fun. I love hearing about how you are helping your little siblings with their work, and some of the fun games you have all invented together. It's lovely to speak to mums and dads too, and to hear how proud they are of you all and the way you are coping during this time.

I thought I would give you a little update on the things I have been doing since you last saw me, two weeks ago. I had to begin working from home then, to keep myself and my baby safe from the coronavirus, as pregnant women have a lower immune system and can get more ill. I am completely fine and have not been ill; it is just a precaution. However, that doesn't mean that I haven't been thinking about you or working hard every day! I have been planning lots of fun things to learn about when we get back, and been looking at all the fantastic work that you have been doing throughout the year. I have also been looking for exciting activities for the whole school to do, and have put these on our Facebook page (www.facebook.com/OAClarksfield) so that you can all enjoy them.

In the evenings, I have been watching films (as I know a lot of you have too!) and cooking. I really enjoy making tasty meals for my partner and I to enjoy, and it gives us something to look forward to every day. We have also been taking our dog, Tess, for long walks (making sure we are socially distancing of course!) in the evening and I've really enjoyed seeing the flowers and trees beginning to bloom. There seem to be lots more birds in the garden now too; a couple of them keep having a fight outside my kitchen window when I am trying to talk to Mr Fowler, Mrs Norris and Miss Morrish!

Bump is growing lots (I've added a picture below) and the baby kicks all the time now. She/he especially likes to kick me when I'm listening to music and when it's time for bed! I am now 28 weeks pregnant, so only have 12 more weeks to go, which is very exciting and a little bit nerve-wracking.

I hope you are all finding lots to do to occupy your time. I'm glad you are all working, but it is also really important to stay active and be creative, and to spend some quality time with your family. I would love it if you could write back to me and tell me what you have been up to. You could even ask me some questions and I could write back! If you do write to me, email your letter to Clarksfield.admin@oasisclarksfield.org and they will send it to me. I promise to reply!

Looking forward to hearing from you,
