

Batty Day out!!!!

Yesterday some very unusual visitors came to do English but I have to warn you there a little bit batty. I'll give you a clue it was very hairy. Ok I'll tell they were bats. As they swooped around in chaos Miss Kelly screamed BATS!!!! Mr. Woodget said what's going on Miss Kelly said BATS!! again so Mr Woodget said initiate lockdown mode!!! he said to the walky talky I tried focus on my English but it was just too batty. Haha!! Know here is something scary again. All the class was paralysed in fear except for Aminah.

The bat that swooped over our heads

Yesterday was just an ordinary English lesson until... a visitor popped out of nowhere without us knowing! It was a bat in the corridor. It swooped over Mrs Kelly's head. Mrs Kelly yelled, "ARGH!". She said "HA THERE IS A BAT SWOOPING OVER MY HEAD!". We all froze with fear. Sarah & So did Mr Woodroffe. I was so intrigued to see it. Soon a man came and shut our door just in case something bad would happen. Soon... Another bat came! It was a really batty bat afternoon. All of us were screaming like cats and dogs. At home time we were all checking if they were hiding.

The Bats who came for tea

Yesterday was the coolest day ever! We came back from some exercise. When it came Miss Kelly screamed and ran inside and shut the door and shouted, "Don't panic But There's Bats!" Everybody screamed with excitement. The other year 4 class were going to come up until Mr Woodyet radioed that they had to back down. Zahra and Adam had to do a job and get all their coats and go throw the bat cave (the hall way with bats in there) and take it outside and they got 10 DOJOS! And went home. Now you see how the bats came to tea!

Batty Surprise

Yesterday was the most craziest day of my life. There was a bat! The bat was swooping and diving in Mr Unwin's class room, then it came in the corridor. As soon as it came Miss Kelly appeared, Miss Kelly screamed as loud as she could, she screamed "Bat! Bat! Bat!", Mr Woodjet quickly shot the windows and the door. I couldn't focus on my english work because the bat was too interesting. We all thought that bec the bat can come from the roof and cannot come out from the work that the builders are doing.
